Dr. Lynch earned his medical degree from the University of Virginia School of Medicine in Charlottesville, VA after completing his undergraduate studies at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, VA. He completed a fellowship in Urologic Oncology at New York's Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center.

During his distinguished Navy career, Dr. Lynch, having served in Vietnam and Operation Desert Storm, was decorated for both heroism and meritorious performance. He was also Chairman of Urology at Portsmouth Naval Hospital. Dr. Lynch is board certified by the American Board of Urology and the American Board of Medical Hypnosis. He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of numerous professional societies. Currently, Dr. Lynch holds an appointment as Professor and Chairman of Urology at Eastern Virginia Medical School as well as Professor of Clinical Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Dr. Lynch describes his treatment philosophy as "commitment to the whole patient" and characterizes his approach to cancer treatment as a "team effort, involving the patient, the family, and the whole health care team, of which the surgeon is just one part." His research interests are primarily in the area of urologic cancer, but include renal stone disease, pain management and stress-related illnesses.
